The triple naturalization fraud case, in which Thomas E. Barrett, former marshal of the court of appeals; John P. Dolan, chairman of the Democratic city committee; and Policeman Frank Garrett are defendants, will go to the jury in the United States District Court Friday afternoon.

District Attorney D. P. Dyer at 2 o'clock, following the noon recess, commenced the closing argument for the United States government, following the speech of Judge Chester H. Krum for the defense.

In case of a hung jury, District Attorney Dyer says he will begin the new trial Monday morning, there being a venire now on hand from which the jury can be chosen.

If the defendants are acquitted they will be tried later on other indictments charging them with having aided and abetted naturalization frauds, there being a total of 29 indictments against Thomas E. ## SHOWERS WILL BRING WARMTH

Snow Not Very Far North of Missouri
Boundary Is Gentle Harbinger of Coming Winter.

According to the government expert's point of view, there is something on the tap for St. Louis in the way of weather. It is coming very soon. Friday's clouds will surrender the rain which they hold, while Missouri's neighbors to the north and in Nebraska are getting snow. The Friday forecast issued by the weather bureau follows:

"Rain tonight and Saturday, followed by fair weather. Warmer tonight. Cooler Saturday."
The coldest temperature in St. Louis Friday was 38 degrees above zero at 7 o'clock. Helena, Mont., was the coldest point in the United States, the mercury falling to 3 degrees above zero there. Cloudy skies prevail through the central valleys, due to the storm hanging over Oklahoma and moving rapidly northeastward. Rain and snow continue in the region west of the Rockies, excepting southern California and Arizona.

EXPENSIVE JOBS BRING NO SALARY

Men Who Thought They Had Positions Say "Exchange" Was Akin to Robbery.

DEPOSITS FOR "GOOD FAITH"

Warrants Issued Against "Employers"
Who Have Not Explained
Their Operations.

Warrants were issued Friday against E. E. Messenger, president, and R. B. Barrington, secretary of the National Exchange, with offices at 218-219 Postoffice building.

The National Exchange offices are closed, and Messrs. Barrington and Messenger are not within the range of vision of the police. Detectives are now on their trail, with the hope of giving the elusive money-getters a chance to explain their operations.

According to the statements of the victims, the National Exchange advertised for men to act as collectors for the company, and requested a cash deposit "to show good faith" in return for these deposits.

The advertisements gave the new employees a promissory note for the amount of the deposits, drawing interest at 6 per cent and to mature in one year.

The applicants got their jobs immediately, but being unable to carry out their duties, gave up their efforts to make collections. In the meantime, the company had been making a wide gap of ignorance to a conclusion satisfactory to the prosecution.

"Barrett and Dolan are not charged with forging fraudulent papers. They are not charged with having used the papers. They are charged with aiding and abetting the men alleged to have had these certificates."

"My contention is that these men have not been charged with the offense which the facts indicated would show them to have committed."

But they are charged with another offense entirely.

Judge Krum then argued at length that the government had made a mistake in its charges.

Motive Lacking,
Lawyer Says.

"Who ever heard of a man embarking upon crimes of this serious description just to be accommodated?" he said. "Barrett had no earthly motive for stealing certificates from the office of the clerk of the court of appeals."

"Take Dolan. What could be his motive for furnishing Barrett with blank certificates?"

"He could not carry the Twenty-fourth Ward by improperly voting 12 men."

"Is it not absurd for the prosecution to charge that in a short 30 minutes Barrett, ignorant as he is, received a lesson in penmanship and learned enough to fill out 12 certificates?"

"If you believe it is absurd to charge Barrett and Dolan with these crimes, you must also feel assured that it is absurd to accuse Garrett on the same charges. They are charged alike."

Attorney Thomas J. Rowe at the defense, in reply to the jury, said: "No man would vote to convict the innocent who took these papers of the crime which they stand charged. None of you believes that any one of them knew he was committing a wrong when he received the fraudulent papers in question."

"If they were not cognizant of acting criminally, were not in felonious possession of the papers, they could not be convicted as principals. If this is so it is manifestly impossible to convict anyone of aiding and abetting them in that of which they themselves cannot be convicted."

Col. Dyer in his closing speech for the government said:

"A most lamentable condition of affairs confronts us in this case. It is revolting to every good citizen. It must be corrected."

Such Crimes
Are Widespread.

"St. Louis is no worse than other large cities. In every large city there are gangs of cut-throats who operate in political parties on both sides and who are only for themselves."

"The people must in their anger destroy these criminals. It is the duty of citizens, and if they fail the security of the republic is endangered."

"There has been talk of sympathy for the defendants."

"If I failed in the discharge of my duty in prosecuting these defendants, I would be ashamed to go back to Lincoln County, Mo., and stand by the ashes of my parents and to return to the shadow of the Blue Ridge mountains in Old Virginia, where I was born."

SAYS JUDGES GAVE HER NO HEARING

Miss Anna Dreyer Charges Civil Service Commissioner Foulke With Taking Snap Judgment.

SHE SAW HIM ONLY ONCE

Was Not Permitted to Appear as Witness at Later Hearing, She Declares.

FACTS OF THE ST. LOUIS POST- OFFICE SCANDAL.

1. Anna Dreyer and others made affidavits charging Postmaster Baumhoff with improprieties.
2. The postal department investigated and one report charged Postmaster Baumhoff with "gross improprieties."
3. Mr. Baumhoff, seeking reappointment, was not reappointed.
4. Miss Dreyer and others were dismissed, charged with having conspired and secured false testimony, to cause Mr. Baumhoff's removal (The false testimony charges results from certain women clerks who made affidavits against Mr. Baumhoff having received).
5. The postal department declares the St. Louis postoffice scandal a "closed incident," but Miss Dreyer insists that the conspiracy to defame her through the impugning of herself by another woman, which was uncovered by Chief Wilkie of the United States Secret Service, shall not be a closed incident until the public shall know the identity of the conspirators and their purpose in trying to discredit a woman postal clerk.

Miss Anna Dreyer, one of the postoffice clerks discharged from the service by Postmaster General Payne on the charge of conspiracy, after a suspension lasting six months without charges, said to the Post-Dispatch Friday:

"It is reported that my dismissal was the result of charges made against me in a secret report made by Civil Service Commissioner Foulke, who was sent here to investigate the case for the President's own information. If this is true, the evidence against me was wholly one-sided."

"The only time I ever saw Mr. Foulke was one day while he was at the postoffice building. He passed through the mail division. Someone said 'There goes Mr. Foulke.' I looked at him with some curiosity, because I expected to be called before him to give my testimony in the case at almost any moment. I waited day after day, but was not called, and I never even saw Mr. Foulke again."

"Mr. Foulke made all his examinations and took all the testimony in Mr. Baumhoff's private office in the presence of Baumhoff, Mr. Bracken and Attorney Dillon. My statements of the case and my charges against Mr. Baumhoff were made before Inspector Vickery of Cincinnati, Dixon of Philadelphia and Mayor of Chicago last November."

"To them I made a truthful report of Mr. Baumhoff's offenses, and if their testimony is false I cannot see why they are permitted to remain in the service."

"After giving my testimony before them, I was again permitted to testify before Mr. Foulke, although it is on his report and recommendations that I was dismissed."

Exonerated by Secret Service.

"I understand that the postoffice department says that so far as my case is concerned, the matter is a 'closed incident.' But I cannot believe that the conspiracy to defame my character is 'closed.'"

"It is a fact that a woman still holding a position in the St. Louis postoffice impersonated me in a manner calculated to ruin my reputation."

"John E. Wilkie, chief of the United States Secret Service, came to St. Louis to investigate the matter. He did so fully and impartially. He was not influenced by any possession prove absolutely."

"The identity of this woman and of those who impersonated me in this manner is known to me. But they are known to Mr. Wilkie, Mr. Foulke, my assistant postmaster general, and to others."

"No effort has been made by the postoffice department to clear up the charges brought against me by conspiracy. My dismissal from the service after a suspension of six months certainly does not do so. The conspiracy to defame my character did not originate outside of some branch of the department, otherwise they would not have been made a matter of internal discussion, but a matter of record to the secret service department."

"I have the right that every woman has, whether a civil service employee or not, to have her private life known to who would conspire against her and to have her name used in trying to ruin my reputation."

"I am sure this is not a 'closed incident' to a girl in my position. The postoffice department has done nothing to restore my good name. On the contrary my summary dismissal on charges of conspiracy without the opportunity of defense only further discredits me."

GUADALAJARA LIKE A STAGE

All the People in the City Where
Kratz Is Making His Stand
Seem Like Players.

No city in the United States is the center of greater interest for the people of St. Louis than Guadalajara, Mexico, where Charles Kratz is making his last stand against extradition to St. Louis to answer for the crimes with which he is charged.

For two weeks the Post-Dispatch has had a staff correspondent in Guadalajara, through whom St. Louis people have been quickly made acquainted with every development in the celebrated case.

When not occupied with the daily developments in the case, the correspondent has been gathering material and absorbing the atmosphere of the city and its people.

All the city is like a stage and all the people seem like players. Dandies in spangled garments and smoking in mantillas vie with wearers of latest styles and Paris gowns and it all seems like a play-writer's dreamy fancy.

A fascinating description, illustrated with new photographs, will be in the next Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

FURY OF A WOMAN SCORNED CASTS THIS MAN BEHIND BARS

Deserted Wife's Secret Message From Indianapolis Helps St. Louis Police to Capture Man Charged With Embezzlement by Employers.

CHILDREN WENT WITH HIM IN HIS FLIGHT TO INDIANA

By Pretending to Forgive Him, She Won His Confidence, Obtained Confession of His Defalcations, and Regained Her Little Ones.

Mrs. Albert Ross has her revenge. Prison bars inclose her husband, who has possession of her two children and the drama which began with a man's desertion of a woman and continued with that woman's pursuit and capture of him will have its final act in the courts.

Chapter I.
The story opens with Albert Ross, collector and solicitor for the West End Coal & Feed Co., his wife and their two children, living at 4057 Fairfax avenue. The husband seemed busy with his work; the wife and mother was contented with her home and family; the children were happy. Mrs. Ross and the children had enjoyed their midday luncheon and the three were sitting beside the open windows of their home, enjoying the light breeze that fanned them.

Ross came home. The children, first to see him, ran to the door to give him welcome. He kissed them. Then to his wife he explained his early arrival:

"I wasn't very busy this afternoon so I thought I would come home and take the children for a car ride. Fix them up a little and we'll be back in time for supper."

Mrs. Ross put clean frocks upon the little ones, kissed them and her husband and watched them as they passed down Fairfax to Sarah street and then turned north toward Finney avenue.

Chapter II.
The wife sat in the partly-lighted home, alone and wondering. It was past the supper hour and husband and children had not returned.

The lingering sun had finally sunk beneath the horizon; the twilight had dimmed to darkness; twinkling stars wig-wagged their signals through the night.

The mother sat long before the open window, watching and waiting. Her eyelids closed through tears, but sleep did not come.

The stars went out before the approaching dawn; the sun that had lingered in the west as she watched the night before came slowly from the east.

Chapter III.
Mrs. Ross, neatly dressed, but with eyes that were red and heavy, asked at the office of the business men's league and was employed if he had reported for work. She was told that he had not. William L. Wondrack, proprietor, asked if he had not been home; she told him of his appearance at the house, his departure with the children, his promise and his failure to keep it.

Mr. Wondrack listened attentively. Then he went to his books. They told the story of the cause. Ross' accounts showed a shortage.

While Mrs. Ross continued her search, Mr. Wondrack asked for a warrant, charging Ross with embezzlement of funds belonging to his employer.

Chapter IV.
The search of the wife proved fruitless. The warrant remained unserved. There was no trace of the missing man or the children.

Mrs. Ross gave up her deserted home and the neighbors lost trace of her. They did not know until two months had elapsed that her inquiries had led her to write the story of the desertion to Mrs. Whiteside, sister of her husband living in Indianapolis, and that Mrs. Whiteside had replied that Ross and the children were in Indianapolis, making their home with his sister.

"Then began the progress of Mrs. Ross' revenge. She went to Indianapolis, found her husband and children and with tears and protestations of gladness, rather than with reproaches and manifestations of anger. She declared that her love for him had not diminished because of his desertion, but that she was ready to forget the silent hours of sad watching, the shock of the desertion and the agony of the separation from the children."

She took her place as Ross' wife and was all that a devoted wife and mother could be. She gave her confidence and invited his.

And so she secured from Ross a confession that he was short in his accounts with the firm that employed him.

Chapter V.
Mrs. Ross concealed her gratification at the successful issue of her plans. She feared that the man might again escape her and that with him might again go the children. But there was nothing of hesitation in her action. She communicated promptly with the St. Louis police, told of the confession of Ross' guilt and of the best means for his capture.

Not many days afterward a St. Louis detective arrived in Indianapolis. That evening Mrs. Ross and the two children left for the home of James Bennett, Mrs. Ross' father, at Lilly, Ill. Ross accompanied them to the station.

After Mrs. Ross' father was arrested, James Bennett was arrested. Ross was turned to St. Louis with Ross, who was at once placed behind the bars to await prospect of the charge made by Wondrack that he embezzled $453 from the firm.

Wondrack says it will hardly be necessary for Mrs. Ross to appear as a witness against her husband.

Chapter VI.
"My wife's extravagance led me to take the money," Ross now says. "When I was in so deep that I could not get out, I took the money and the children. I did not know until after I had been brought back to St. Louis that she had betrayed me."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Two mail cars were the first sent out on the second day of the railway strike.

They made the trips from the barns downtown and back without interruption. All the police in the city are on duty, and before 6 o'clock crowds filled the streets about the car barns, ready for the struggle.

Two cars on Wentworth avenue left the Seventy-ninth street barns at 8:40 a. m. in charge of Police Captain George W. Shippey. Fifteen policemen were on board each car. Shippey's plan was, and is to be, to carry on the cars any persons arrested for committing violent acts, thus making the alleged disturbers equally with the police the target for bricks and stones meant for the nonunion train crew.

The tie-up
Was Complete.

The tie-up yesterday was complete. The company totally failed to operate. Many cars were wrecked.

Only one shot was fired yesterday. The bullet found no human mark. Several persons were injured by stones thrown by hoodlums, but no one was seriously hurt.

Worse than yesterday was the expectation this morning. Lines of union pickets were thrown out at various points, especially in Wentworth avenue, while the nonunion employees assembling at the barns of the Chicago City Railway. At the same time, a hoodlum element, whose work is disavowed by the strikers, began to gather along the more prominent crossroads.

The activity of the strikers and their sympathizers was due to news that the railway company would make a desperate attempt to start cars with heavily increased police protection. Unlike yesterday, it was expected that a picked force of police would be aboard each car started and that a heavy detail of patrolmen on foot would guard the street railway lines, while at points a few hundred apart paired wagons would be stationed.

Police in Patrol Wagons.

Several hundred police and a dozen patrol wagons were massed at the southern terminus of one of the main electric lines at Seventy-ninth street and Cottage Grove avenue, early in the morning, and at 9 o'clock the wagons started toward the police district, leaving squads of police at intervals along the line where trouble was anticipated. Pickets posted by the strikers were also on hand in numbers at the various barns and suddenly watched the preparations being made to guard the cars.

Fairly well armed with police made ready to proceed beside the cars.

While the crowds were on thips of expectation along the Wentworth avenue electric line, two mail cars were started on one of the principal through cable routes, Cottage Grove avenue, which is a direct parallel of Wentworth avenue, but is half a mile distant to the east. The mail cars made the entire trip from the outskirts of the city to the business center and return without the slightest interruption.

Considerable interest attached to the movement of the mail cars for the reason that any application to a federal tribunal would most probably be to prevent the mail service being interrupted by strikers.

The state courts on the other hand would be expected to leave out any mention of the mails an injunction should be sought solely to prevent interference with the operation of employees endeavoring

FOOTPADS WORK WHILE KIELY TALKS

While Sun Shines on Desmond in Old Mexico Highwaymen Are Making Hay.

ROBBERIES EVERY NIGHT

Chief Huris Interviews and Gold Medals at Thugs, but They Won't Stop.

While Detective Chief Desmond is getting sunbathed in Mexico waiting for "mañana," murderous thugs are holding carnival in St. Louis and Police Chief Kiely is hurling interviews at them and suggesting a gold medal for the capture of one particularly audacious highwayman.

What means will prevent the highwaymen from stealing the medal has not been announced.

Robberies on street cars, on thoroughfares and in business places have been nightly occurrences and as yet none of the robbers is arrested.

Chief Kiely gives out the following interview today:

It should mean a gold medal at the next annual police review for any of my men who capture the highwayman who robbed these street car conductors yesterday morning.

That robber is certainly a desperado individual, and it may mean his life or that of some other person before he is captured. I hope no other person is injured, but as for the robber—well, the world is better off without such men.

"I have given orders that a careful lookout for this man must be maintained, and if he remains in the city he will not escape."

"But we may reasonably expect more robberies of any kind—no matter how many—before such a desperate man is caught."

"It is now getting the time of year for kidnappings and highway robberies, but I have no fear that my men will be unable to cope with these persons. We broke up several gangs not long ago, and although some criminals may surface before we get this gang that is at work now we will not be long in landing them where they belong—in jail."

Street car conductors are carrying pistols at night—under orders—for want of police protection.

BLAMES CASH REGISTER.

Man Arrested for Theft Says That It Registered Too Much.

Roy Anderson, 33 years old, a bartender at the Ward and Keefe saloon, Broadway and Brooklyn avenue, East St. Louis, was arrested Friday morning on the charge of stealing $1.50 from the cash register. He declares that the arrest is the outcome of a misunderstanding between him and Proprietor Ward and that he is not guilty of larceny. He declares that the cash register has been out of order and registered greater amounts than he indicated. This, he says, caused the shortage.

CRITICS SEE BRILLIANT FUTURE FOR THIS YOUNG BELLEVILLE SINGER

Miss Amanda A. Samstag Wins Fresh Laurels at Concert of Kronthal-Liedertafel Society.

The Kronthal-Liedertafel Society, the largest and one of the oldest singing organizations of Belleville, gave the first concert of the winter season in Liederkranz hall Thursday night before 500 members and guests.

One of the features was a solo by Miss Amanda A. Samstag, the club's premier soprano, who won fresh honors by her rendition of Gounod's "Nella Calma." Miss Samstag has a splendid voice of great compass and exceptional quality. She has sung at a number of St. Louis church musicals in the past year and critics predict for her a brilliant future.

Other soloists were Mrs. Clara Harder Miller of St. Louis, soprano; Prof. Carl Magin of Belleville, violin; Gustav Kiesel, Jr., Belleville, clarinet.

The chorus and mixed chorus numbers were especially meritorious, under the direction of Prof. G. A. Neubert.

At the conclusion of the program the hall was cleared and dancing followed until midnight, in which several hundred couples participated.

Hotel and Club House.

New Buckingham to Be Conducted on Novel Plan.

The incorporation of the Buckingham Club reveals the fact of plans for an interurban world's fair club and hotel to be conducted on a large scale and along novel lines.

The club has an option on the Buckingham Hotel now being constructed at West Pine boulevard and Kings highway, and it is the purpose of the incorporators to have its membership comprise men of known standing and wealth from various cities.

Each of the men accepted for membership will have full club privileges during the time for which he may engage rooms at the club house, and he is to equip the house as a most complete and exclusive club.

J. J. Holbrook of St. Louis is president, Alton Baldwin of Toledo is vice-president, E. W. Bailett of St. Louis is secretary and George H. Blackwelder of St. Louis is treasurer.

HAD HIGHEST SKILL AND YET THIS WORKMAN STARVED TO DEATH.

A pathetic story of hardship and misfortune was told a Post-Dispatch representative yesterday. It depicts a man not far from this city who was exceedingly skillful in a certain line of work, but he was so unclean in his habits that his hands were always soiled. Whenever he did a fine piece of work he would be likely to spoil it by getting it spotted and greasy. So at last no one would hire him and he grew so poor he finally died from insufficient nourishment.

"Now," said Mr. Wolf of the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., there is a parallel case to that one in the field of medicine. It is cod liver oil, which contains medicinal and curative properties to do such splendid work as a body-building, healing, strength-creating tonic medicine, and yet fails because its greasy, indigestible oil upsets the stomach and hinders these excellent curatives from doing their healing work.

"Like the workman, old-fashioned cod liver oil has 'lost its job,' and few people nowadays have any use for it or emulsions, since Vinol is rapidly taking their place. Vinol is delicious and digested with perfect ease, and at the same time contains all the genuine medicinal curatives, taken direct from fresh cod livers. Vinol will do more than was ever claimed for old-fashioned cod liver oil, yet it is entirely free from oil and agreeable to the weakest stomach. It is guaranteed to give strength to the weak, vitalize the aged and cure stubborn colds and hacking coughs, or money will be paid back."

the trip toward the center of the city with a half hour, all on the Wentworth avenue electric line. Nonunion crews manned the cars, and each car, after the first, was in charge of a lieutenant or sergeant and 12 policemen.

Though there was much excitement and the streets were thronged with people, little actual trouble was experienced by the leading cars on Wentworth avenue line during the trip to the business district. The cars started on their return trip on almost schedule time. Four teamsters were arrested at intervals along the way for attempting to block the way and were put aboard the cars.

Five union men boarded different cars soon after the start, paid their fares and during the round trip used their influence to avert violence.

FOOTBALL

HARD GAMES FOR THE LOCAL TEAMSYALE IS NOW A
10 TO 6 FAVORITEOld Eli Feels Sure of Victory—Lineup of Team Not Yet Announced.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 12.—Yale's coaches are losing sleep just now over a problem of how to crowd their men into two victories. The trouble is among the backs.

It has been generally known since last fall that the Columbia game that the coaches were trying various combinations out of promising material. They are making every possible effort to organize an unusually strong back field, for upon the backs the game with Princeton will depend.

Old Eli's coaches have to solve an unusually complex situation. Under ordinary conditions it would be very simple to put in the next best man in Bowman's place. But Bowman did the punting for the team. That point made the trouble. Mitchell, who has been playing left half since the Columbia game, is a far better punter than Bowman. But he is not nearly as good a ground runner as Bowman, nor is his defense work up to standard.

In former, the substitute fullback, Yale has a ground runner who is a trifle better than Bowman. But he is not nearly as good a punter as Bowman. But he is not nearly as good a ground runner as Bowman, nor is his defense work up to standard.

On the other hand, Yale's best punter will need all his ability to meet the great DeWitt at his own game. It is probable that the coaches will not make their final decision in the matter until just before the game. As it now stands Mitchell's kicking and Farmer's strong aggressive play combined with Mitchell in the back field, seems to be Eli's strongest card.

The varsity lined up against the scrubs for 30 minutes of hard practice yesterday afternoon. The play was fast and fast from start to finish. Although the scrubs were frequently allowed to win the "varsity" run over them at will. They used some new formation plays that have not been tried in an actual game this year.

The Cornell team, according to recent reports, is somewhat overworked. The team has not yet recovered from the effects of their hard game with Princeton, but it expects to make a brilliant showing in their coming game with Columbia.

Hard work is the order of the day at Ann Arbor where the Michigan team is preparing for the battle with Wisconsin. Assistant Coach McGovern returned from the Chicago-Wisconsin game with a very wholesome respect for the Badger style of attack. Wisconsin's style was drilled into the scrubs and used very effectively against the varsity, so effectively that Coach Voss said that the team would have to improve its defense considerably if they expected to hold the Badgers.

At Princeton coaches and men are at work constantly trying to organize a team that can beat "Old Eli" on Saturday. Their team is made up of constant signal practice and a little rough work kept then in shape. Although Princeton has but a fighting chance, it is showing signs of making many gains when good enough odds are offered.

If reports from the two training camps are true Minnesota will not have much trouble with Illinois Saturday. According to reports Illinois is getting weaker every day. Minnesota is getting stronger every day. The two teams are confident of victory at U.S. Saturday.

CHICAGO'S HOPE
IN ECKERSALLMaroon Will Rely Largely on His Kicking Ability in the West Point Game.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Coach Stagg is beginning to be pleased with the Maroons. All season the Midway team has been touted as of championship caliber, but at critical moments it has been a failure. With all the "wizard" ability of Stagg, he has been unable to bring the men to the point where they played the best game of which they were capable.

Now the squad is about to go to West Point to meet the soldiers in the only game of the season that will give a thorough test on the relative merits of the east and west, and the Maroons are bracing up and playing in practice, as good and strong a game as their mentor can wish.

Chicago has been stronger on defensive work all season than on offense. The back field fails to play together, helping the man carrying the ball, and in this way the team has been weak in its efforts to advance the pigskin when it secured it from its opponents. A general inability to pick openings and to squirm through, making the required distance, seems to have been the trouble frequently.

Point coach, the West Point cadets is known to be powerful and fast, the Maroons will probably require all the defensive strength they can muster to hold the soldiers. On the other hand, West Point's defense, while strong, is not as strong as Harvard's. The attack of the soldiers is fast and hard, and line outchasing both Yale's and Harvard's in their early games.

Sutor weighs 165 pounds, and Adamson weighs 160 pounds. Sutor has a fair reputation in his class, and is said to have improved recently.

WRESTLING

BAPTISTE GIVES
UP IN AGONYAdamson, After Losing the First Fall, Overpowers the Champion Wrestler in Decisive Manner.

DOCTORS SAY BAPTISTE SUFFERED GREAT PAIN.

According to two doctors, George Baptiste deserves great credit for remaining in the ring with Adamson as long as he did in the third bout.

Dr. Wessels and Parrish both examined Baptiste following the bout and both said the Greek had sustained a painful, though not serious, injury.

Baptiste's injury was a strain of the coracoid, a substance which joins the clavicle to the shoulder. The result of the strain was apparently outwardly, in a great knot on Baptiste's shoulder.

George Baptiste, the hitherto undefeated wrestler in the middleweight division, lost his match with Ed Adamson before a fair crowd at the West End Club's new coliseum last night.

Adamson, lighter in weight than his opponent, won the second and third falls after Baptiste had a good start with one fall.

The deciding heat was awarded to Adamson by Referee James Conlon when Fred Strong threw a towel into the ring in token of Baptiste's surrender.

The latter appeared to be badly punished and claimed he had sustained an injured shoulder. The crowd seemed satisfied that Baptiste had quit from legitimate causes.

Adamson is the man whom Baptiste defeated several weeks ago at the Business Men's gymnasium after the first fall had been won by Adamson. Baptiste appeared absolute master of Adamson in the second and third falls of that bout.

Last night Adamson was always superior to the Greek. He kept Baptiste on the defensive, and though several pounds lighter the weights made up for this in agility.

The fall against him was due to a strange hold, which Haughton of the club insisted should be allowed in the articles of agreement to make the match more entertaining for the crowd.

Adamson had forced the match up to this time and had Baptiste in a bad way two or three times. After thirteen minutes, the Greek switched into a triangle hold, which not only put Adamson down, but appeared to punish him severely.

Notwithstanding, Adamson came back into the ring fresh as a daisy and put Baptiste down with a three-quarter Nelson and a handlock after twelve minutes.

Adamson had a half Nelson and body hold when Strong threw a towel into the ring and Baptiste would surely have succumbed had he continued. Eight minutes after the time of the third fall, Baptiste claims his shoulder was injured. The last two falls in great pain.

Adamson was favorite in the betting. After the fight he opened challenges to the lightweight of the world for $500 a side.

Coleman Withdraws His Challenge to Winner.

Frank Coleman, the clever wrestler who came down here from Hannibal to challenge the winner of the Baptiste-Adamson match, announced that his challenge to the winner of the contest for $500 a side was withdrawn and that he will leave St. Louis this morning.

Asked why he withdrew his challenge Coleman said he did not like the prospect of making money at the expense of making a fool of himself.

President Haughton of the West End Club said he was satisfied with the outcome of the affair. The men wrestled for a 350 guarantee and a side bet.

By Brilliant Playing He Jumps to

"Cowboy" Weston continues in the good form which he first showed Wednesday night and at Thursday night's session with Grant Eby for the continuous pool championship took the lead.

Weston started with a run of 15 after the break and repeated the performance five times during the evening, closing with the feat. His total score for the evening was 171, which gave him a grand total of 603 and put him 22 points ahead of Eby, whose score of 581 gave him a grand total of 581.

MAD BULL CHARGES ON RED SWEATERS

Cornell Football Players Establish Reputations as World-Beating Sprinters.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The Cornell eleven demonstrated yesterday that it is composed, singly and as a whole, of the fastest sprinters in the college ranks of 1905. Its demonstration of the fact was entirely impromptu, and while records were broken, no official timing was made. The official time was among the sprinters.

The Cornell warriors, swarmed in red sweaters, went to an old and well-known signal practice. They were bucking and passing and sprinting in most gratifying manner, when there came a sound of war from their rear, and a Durham bull, mad as a hornet and intent on putting an end to the red sweaters, came charging at them.

None of the players stopped at any of the fences which they encountered within the radius of half a mile over which they scattered. The bull followed them to the west of his ability, but the red sweaters eluded him and the best he could do was to stop, bellow and paw up the earth until a farmer caught him.

DELANEY RELYS
ON TEAM'S SPEEDRush Medics Will Outweigh St. Louis University Boys, but Game
Will Be Hard One.

The game between the St. Louis University eleven and the Rush Medical team will probably one of the hardest games that the varsity plays this year. The visiting eleven will outweigh the local boys considerably, but the varsity will have the edge on speed and are in better condition.

The game is scheduled to be played at Sportsman's Park tomorrow afternoon and will attract considerable attention as the Rush eleven has in its lineup a number of former stars of the big western teams.

Two former University of Chicago players are to be used at end and half, and weigh 165 and 170 pounds. Laid at and served two seasons on the Chicago eleven and was one of the prominent athletes of the university. Dondanville also played with the Chicago team for two years and was in the varsity of the track team and was one of the speediest men in the college.

Person of the Rush team is their chief ground runner and is the man most to be feared in the university eleven. He is credited with remarkable speed for his 134 pounds of muscle and is a former University of Michigan track star.

The local boys are not in the least frightened by this display of records and are preparing to meet the Rush eleven and are relying on speed, as the Rush aggregation is slow, because of its weight.

The St. Louis University eleven's lineup will be the same as the one that played at McAndrew's this week with Fehmann still at quarterback. Connet will probably be the official for the local team.

BOXING BEGINS
AT THE M. A. C.Four Contests Scheduled for Nov. 21
—Bouts to Be Under Amateur Rules.

Missouri Athletic Club at last announces its expected entry into the boxing game. According to the management of the big athletic organization, the first boxing carnival to take place there will be on Nov. 21, when a card of four contests has been arranged by Instructor Tommy Sullivan.

The card scheduled follows:
Jack Keefe, East St. Louis, vs. Billy Huber, St. Louis, 10 rounds at 120 pounds.
Nick Santora of St. Louis and Young Griffith of this city, 8 rounds at 110 pounds.
Billy Trueman vs. Eddie Randall, six rounds, catchweights.

Cony Trueman vs. Ed Smith, six rounds at 110 pounds.

The bouts are not high class but will serve to introduce the game at the club.

At the outset of the club's career, the management had stated that they would not go in for professional boxing contests. The men engaged are all professionals, though the bouts will be under amateur rules.

When asked whether any big contests were planned by the club, the management was not prepared to state. It was announced that the affair of Nov. 21 was for club members strictly and will take place in the club's gymnasium.

Circuit has already given an opinion that boxing bouts held under strictly club auspices were legal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—W. C. Fessenden took about $30,000 out of the ring yesterday when his horse, Pass Book, won the last race at a mile and a sixteenth from a field of 11. Pass Book was quoted at prices ranging from 80 to 100 to 1, and Fessenden by placing his money in small amounts all over the ring, did not have to play more than $200 to win the grand total of $30,000 and put him 22 points ahead of Eby, whose score of 581 gave him a grand total of 581.

INDIANS DISAPPOINTED;
PALEFACE FIGHT STOPPED.

HOBART, O. T., Nov. 12.—A big crowd of Kiowa Indians are disgusted with the paleface. They had high hopes of seeing a genuine fight between two warriors here and crowded the club where Peter Everett, champion of Oklahoma, and Jack Graham, champion of Iowa, were scheduled to meet. But just as they had got well settled, United States officers stopped the game, refunded the gate receipts and declared the fight off.

PERFUME MAKER'S ROMANCE IS BRIEF

Advertisement Notifies Public That Wife Is No Longer Under His Roof.

"On and after Oct. 28, 1932, I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by my wife, Mrs. Ida Liverani." "PROF. H. LIVERANI."

This statement now being published in the daily papers is the public's information, up to date, of the domestic troubles of Prof. and Mrs. Liverani, who have been residing at 4555 Finney avenue, Mrs. Liverani does not reside there now.

Prof. Liverani, who is a manufacturer of perfumes and a World's Fair concessionaire, appeared to the police Friday for aid in straightening out his domestic difficulties. He was informed that the police could not interfere in such things, and that the courts are his only refuge.

There was a scene at the Finney avenue house Thursday evening. An expressman called at the house for the personal belongings of Mrs. Liverani, who left her home several days before. He bore a note from Mrs. Liverani to her husband. The wife briefly declared her intention of never returning, and concluded by asking for all of her clothes and other property.

Liverani, who is 35 years old, 25 years his departed wife's senior, was greatly wrought up by his wife's note. He demanded of the expressman the present address of Mrs. Liverani. When the man refused to tell him the professor ordered him from the place and refused to give up his wife's property.

The expressman was persistent, and Prof. Liverani called a policeman, who extracted the clothing from the man. The information that Mrs. Liverani is now domiciled at 1335 Louisiana avenue.

WHO RODE THE GRAY HORSE?

Like a Specter It Ranged the Ozarks and Death Was on the Pommel.

The sun had set and the shades of night were falling fast over the rough border country where Missouri and Arkansas meet. Peace brooded over the cabin homes of the Ozarks.

Out of the timbered region beyond the North Park rode a man on a big gray horse. He carried a loaded shotgun across the pommel of his saddle. He had fared forth to kill.

When lights gleamed from the cabin an hour later three had fallen at their doors and one lay dead on the ground.

Murderous work had been done in three counties of two states.

It was done by the man on the gray horse.

Who was the grim rider of the gray horse who carried death on the pommel of his saddle and what was his motive?

The story will be in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

WIFE SUES FOR TWO CHILDREN

Mrs. Carrie Haus Institutes Habeas Corpus Proceedings Against Husband.

FORBIDDEN TO SEE THEM

Says Her Father-in-Law Drove Her Away and Set the Dogs on Her.

Habeas corpus proceedings were instituted before Judge Taylor in the circuit court Friday morning by Mrs. Carrie Haus against her husband, Joseph Haus, to gain possession of her two children, Joseph, age 3, and Willie, age 5.

The two children were brought into court by their grandfather, Michael Haus of 1943 Warren avenue, where they are now living with their father.

On the stand Mrs. Haus testified that she was married on June 28, 1929. She lived with her husband happily before their quarrels began. At that time Mrs. Haus was taken to St. Anthony's hospital to undergo an operation. As they are Catholics and had been married by a priest, so that in case of Mrs. Haus' death there should be no doubt about the standing of the children in the church.

Mrs. Haus recovered and when she left the hospital she learned that her husband had sold their furniture and taken the children to East St. Louis.

East St. Louis and began living with her husband and children. She testified that her husband drank and when under the influence of liquor treated her with the most cruelty.

Mrs. Haus said that she left again about two months ago and went to the home of her father, Michael Haus, at No. 1943 Warren avenue. She went to her father-in-law's house to get her children, but he refused to let her see the children. She alleges that he drove her away from the door and turned the dogs on her.

She then gave up all hope of coming to an agreement with her husband and instituted habeas corpus proceedings to get possession of the children.

Dear Sir:—I had been suffering severely from kidney trouble. All symptoms were on hand: my former strength and power had left me; I could hardly drag myself along. Even my mental capacity was giving out, and often I wished to die. It was then I saw an advertisement of yours in a New York paper, but would not have paid any attention to it, had it not promised a sworn guarantee with every bottle of your medicine, asserting that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable, and does not contain any harmful drugs. I am seventy years and four months old, and with a good conscience I can recommend Swamp-Root to all sufferers from kidney trouble. Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results.

With many thanks to you, I remain, Very truly yours,

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

What Do You Think of A Jack of all Trades?

If you had an important lawsuit, the loss of which would mean your financial ruin, would you employ the very best lawyer you could find, or would you trust your interests to a "Jack-of-all-Trades" who practices law one day, medicine the next, dentistry the third, and sells stocks and bonds the fourth?

Most certainly you would search out the experienced attorney, taking every precaution to assure yourself that he was a specialist in the particular branch of law affecting your case. How much more important is your health than your business affairs?

The same good sense that guides you in choosing the expert lawyer will lead you to avoid medicines that claim infallibility in curing everything from yellow fever to broken legs.

"Cure-alls" do not appeal to the man or woman of intelligence. Recall Mucu-Tone is not a "cure-all." It is a new remedy which is designed and built for the sole purpose of curing catarrh—one of the most dangerous diseases that menace mankind. Recall Mucu-Tone is the specific for the cure of catarrh for which science vainly searched for years.

It remained for a group of famous scientists—physicians and pharmaceutical chemists—working in the laboratories of the United Drug Co., at Boston, to discover the great vital principle which is now revolutionizing the treatment of catarrh throughout the civilized world. This principle is embodied exclusively in the remedy we are providing sufferers under the name of

Rexall Mucu-Tone

Catarrh may affect the head and throat or the bronchial tubes and lungs. It may affect the stomach and cause dyspepsia. It may affect the liver, kidneys, bladder or the intestines. In women it most frequently attacks the delicate organs of the pelvic cavity, where it is known by a variety of names.

But no matter where it is, catarrh is a congestion of the mucous cells, followed by inflammation and a purulent discharge.

Rexall Mucu-Tone attacks the seat of the disease. It is carried through the myriad of arteries and veins, causing the packed and poisoned mucous cells to release and throw forth the matter contained. This relieves the congestion; the inflammation abates, and the nerve centers take up their regular functions; the discharge ceases, and the various organs are restored to perfect health.

This is the new way of treating catarrh—the only way in which it can be actually and positively cured. Recall Mucu-Tone is the only medicine in the world that will do this.

We guarantee that it will cure you, no matter what the nature of your catarrhal trouble or of how long standing—or we will refund your money.

Price 50 cents per large bottle. Sold only at our store or by mail.

VOICE CRACKS; SINGER FLEES

Soldier Joins Volunteers of America in Street Strains, but Publicity "Scares" Him.

A big bass voice belonging to a grizzled private wearing an United States army uniform united the Volunteers of America and the United States army for three-quarters of an hour last night. Then the high notes of "Marguerite," to which a hymn of volunteer manufacture had been set, proved too much for the big bass voice. He rattled and cracked and split, and the owner of the voice fled.

Chris Block was the singer. He is a private with one of the companies of regulars at Jefferson Barracks and had come downtown to enjoy a leave of absence. He stopped at the edge of the crowd that had gathered to hear the street-corner singing of the Volunteers at Eighth and Olive streets, and became interested. Several times he raised his chin and cleared his throat, but it was not until the thin voice of a woman singer began a "Whispering Willows" that he began to sing.

Adjutant L. B. Smith and the other singer joined in the chorus. Block's notes rolled out from beneath his grizzled mustache with a volume and strength that caused the crowd to turn to him instead of the original singers, and the singers, themselves, to follow his lead.

Adjutant Smith shouted with delight, and as soon as the chorus was finished he clapped him on the back, and led him into the center. Block seemed dazzled for a moment. His rugged face flushed and he was plainly grinning with embarrassment when the singers started up on "Why So Disconsolate." Again the big voice rolled out with music and depth and perfect harmony.

In ten minutes the Volunteers had the largest crowd that they ever saw. Finally came "Marguerite," the high notes, the failure of the big bass voice, and the exit of Block.

Among those who stopped were a gentleman and his wife, from Cincinnati. Both were in evening dress, and were walking from the Planters to the Century. They listened intently.

"That is a man who used to sing at the high-class concert hall in Cincinnati," said the man presently. "His name is Block, and he has made more money with his voice than I have now singing in St. Louis. I don't know how he came to join the army; but there is no doubt that he is Block and that that is Block's big bass voice."

Block had admitted his name to Smith, but would say nothing of his career.

THREW AT HEAD IN MIRROR

Samuel Miller Partially Wrecked Saloon and Judge Fined Him for Poor Aim.

Samuel Miller, a red-headed saloonkeeper, who invited him to leave the saloon after he had lounged around for some time without buying anything, landed him in the middle of all the mirrors that a 35c police court fine can impose.

Miller chose John Hammann's saloon at 1750 Market street as his lounging place. Hammann greeted him, asked about his health, spoke of matters of usual interest, and all that, but Miller failed to purchase. Eventually Hammann asked Miller to leave the saloon. Miller objected. Hammann threw him out.

Presently Miller returned. In each hand he held an empty soda pop bottle. "I'll knock your red block off," he shouted as he came into the room, and the pop bottles began to fly.

But the head was out of reach under the bar. The reflection of it showed in the big mirror, however, and that was where the pop bottles hit. The mirror was shattered. Miller was arrested. Judge Tracy, in finding him Friday morning, mentioned the mistake of not taking proper aim when throwing things especially in a saloon.

TENT HOUSES MUST GO.

Judge Tracy Rules That Structures Near Fair Are Dangerous.

War on the tent dwellers on the grounds adjoining the World's Fair was sounded Friday morning when Judge Tracy ordered the removal of the aggregation of canvas tents and wooden "lean-tos" that have been erected near Delmar and Deslauriers avenues.

The decision was given in the case brought by the building commissioner's office against Sylvester Landwehr, from Indianapolis, who has a canvas-covered lunch room and lodging house near the corner. Judge Tracy sustained the contention that such places were an inflammable menace to the fair grounds, and ordered their removal within a week.

YOUTH, WHO WANTED $5000, IS ON TRIAL

Accused of Seizing Aged Man's Wife and Demanding Ransom for Her Return.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DES MOINES, Mo., Nov. 12.—August Leuth, 19 years of age, who has been in this country less than three years, is on trial here on a charge of blackmail.
It is alleged that he visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Telser, four miles from Bennett, at midnight, called them to the door and said he had been told by their son, who was working in miles away, to take them to his bedside, as he was dying. The old couple readily yielded to the stranger's request, entered his buggy and were driven by him to a point six miles distant. Here, they say, he pointed a revolver at the old man's head, commanding him to alight and hasten back to his house. He was directed to procure $500 and return with it to that very spot at midnight the next night. Failure to comply with the demand was to mean the death of Mrs. Telser, he was told, the burning of all his property and the slaughter of all his stock.

The old man departed as rapidly as his feeble limbs and terror would permit, while the stranger drove Mrs. Telser a short distance further and locked her in the coal shed adjoining a school house.
Next day she broke out of the prison and fled to a nearby farm house.
Meantime the old man insured his property and told the story of the abduction to the sheriff.
The sheriff and a posse found Leuth asleep in a barn half a mile from the Telser home, five miles from the spot where the ransom was to have been paid.

MISSISSIPPI TOWN GAVE HIM "HOURS"

Unexpected Testimony Against Man Accused of Wife-Murder Comes From Former Neighbors.

TELL OF FORMER QUARRELS

Lack of Direct Evidence on Killing Is Basis of Motion for Dismissal.

When the trial of Samuel Parsons, charged with the murder of his wife at their home, 519 Winstanley avenue, East St. Louis, on the night of July 21, was resumed before Circuit Judge Burroughs of the St. Clair County Court at Belleville Friday morning, the state offered a complete surprise by introducing four witnesses from Water Valley, Miss.

From the testimony of Mrs. Gertrude Golding, who was stopping at the Parsons' house at the time of Mrs. Parsons' death, the state expected to prove a motive, but this woman has disappeared and no trace of her can be found.

Parsons' defense is that he shot his wife, believing her to be a burglar, and that at the time the shooting occurred she was standing near a window, apparently trying to lift the screen.

The testimony showed that the marriage of the couple was the result of an elopement. They lived at Water Valley, Miss., nearly a year. According to Mrs. Della Stewart, Mrs. Mary Wright, R. D. Pierce and City Marshal Reynolds, who came from that place to testify, the marital relations of Mr. and Mrs. Parsons were always unhappy.

Mrs. Wright was the first witness examined. She said that on one occasion she saw Parsons eject his wife from the house and otherwise mistreat her.

Mrs. Stewart, with whom the couple boarded, testified that Mrs. Parsons came to her one day and related that her husband had cut her dress into slits. She saw the dress.

"When I asked her husband about it," said Mrs. Stewart, "he explained that she had troublesome temper and he had to do something."

Got Notice to Leave the Town.

R. D. Pierce, who followed Mrs. Stewart on the witness stand, said:

"I saw Mrs. Parsons crawl out of the window one day, to get away from her husband. When she tried to get back into the house Parsons refused to open the door and she was obliged to stay at my place during the night."

"On one occasion," declared City Marshal Reynolds, "Parsons showed me a letter warning him that because of the way in which he had treated his wife the best thing for him to do would be to leave town. I told him that I would look into the matter, and after I had investigated I advised him that the best thing for him to do was to obey the order and leave Water Valley with all haste. He did, but his wife rejoined him afterwards."

The court ruled out the letter, which was offered as evidence.

Samuel Taylor of East St. Louis was placed on the stand Friday afternoon.

When Parsons was arrested shortly after he killed his wife, he told the police that he got the revolver with which he had done the shooting from Taylor. He said he was afraid of burglars.

Mrs. Sarah Barry, a neighbor of the couple in East St. Louis, was the chief witness for the state before court adjourned Thursday evening.

Her testimony went to show that on the night of the murder Parsons was quarreling with his wife. She overheard a crossfire of harsh language and then all was quiet.

Suddenly the outburst was broken by the sound of a pistol shot.

She ran outside and as she did so she saw Parsons standing at the front door of his house.

"I have shot my wife, thinking her a burglar," Mrs. Barry quotes Parsons as saying.

Thereupon Mrs. Barry went into the Parsons' house. She found Mrs. Parsons lying near the window in the front room.

As the husband bent over her prostrate form, Mrs. Barry testified she heard Mrs. Parsons say:

"You have shot me; send for mother."

Parsons replied: "Verge, forgive me; you know I did not do it on purpose."

It was about 12:30 in the morning when the shooting occurred and Mrs. Parsons died three hours later.

At the close of the morning sessions the defense presented a motion for a new trial on the ground that the evidence had not disclosed any motive. The court took this matter under advisement.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—The 30th annual convention of the W. C. T. U. began a session of six days here today with a very large attendance, the 500 delegates constituting only a small part of the visitors. At 8:30 a. m. prayer meetings and conferences were held.

EXPLOSION EXPOSES SCHOOL FOR CRIME

Nitroglycerine Blows Up Quarters Where Six Ambitious Students Were Making Experiments.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—An accident has revealed a school for safe breakers, and has led to the arrest of six students, one of whom gave his name as John Moore and his address as St. Louis.

While manufacturing or testing nitroglycerine in a third-story back room at 255 Wood street, the students nearly met death in an explosion that wrecked the room, loosened the roof and blew a hole in the floor. Four of the men remained to attempt explanations and preserve the secret. They tried to keep the officers out by saying the noise had been due to a lamp exploding. Two of the students fled, but returned at daybreak.

John Patten, one of the prisoners, who said he was 21 years old and lived at St. Mary's, Pa., presented remarkable evidence of his narrow escape. Each of his trousers legs was split into ribbons. Even his underwear was split along both legs.

The other men said they were William Marshall, 21 Batavia street, New York; John Moore, Joseph Anderson of Scranton; William Jones, no home, and Fred Davis, a one-legged man, of Boston. All declined to give any information regarding the explosion or the man and woman believed to be their leaders.

In their pockets and in their room were found two loaded revolvers, filled cartridges and bolts, two pistols, four dynamite caps, a safety-tempered steel punch and drill such as is used in opening safes and a new silver watch and chain.

The police found in Patten's possession four pocket maps of this and adjacent states, with a list of postoffices in this vicinity, some of which have recently been robbed. The postoffices at Spring City and Port Kennedy, Pa., which were visited by burglars last Saturday night, were marked, and on a map of Maryland Pocomoke City was checked off. A safe robbery occurred there recently.

Norway Is Tardy With Plans.

No official information that Norway will not participate in the World's Fair has been received by Charles W. Kohlman, commissioner to the Scandinavian countries for the Exposition. Mr. Kohlman thinks the bill appropriating $7,000 for exhibition purposes by the Norwegian parliament, if withdrawn, will be followed by a substitute.

BAR PATRONS YIELD PURSES Second Saloon Robbery Follows Wave of Trolley Bandits.

Highwaymen following the robbery of one saloon and two street cars, robbed the saloon of Thomas Melican at 238 South Garrison avenue.

Three men participated in the robbery of the saloon Thursday night. They wore handkerchiefs over their faces. About 11 o'clock they entered the saloon and with revolvers ordered Melican and his two guests, Joseph Luby and Luke Gannon, who live in the neighborhood, to throw up their hands.

From Melican they took a gold watch; from Luby they got 25 cents; Gannon had nothing, and with the remark, "You've spent all your money over the bar," the man who had searched the three victims went to the cash register, carefully rang up the "paid out" indicator, and took the $10 that was in the drawer. Then they backed out of the room and ran.

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY FALLING SLATE

Patrick Keefe, Belleville Miner, Meets Instant Death While at His Duties.

Patrick Keefe, living at 114 West E street, Belleville, was instantly killed at 1:30 Friday afternoon while working in his room in the Muren coal mine, two miles northeast of Belleville.

A large quantity of slate, weighing at least a ton, became loosened and, working its way between the props, fell upon Keefe, crushing the life out of him almost instantly.

Workmen in other parts of the mine were attracted by the crash and hurried to his assistance, but he was dead when dug out from the debris.

Keefe was one of the best known miners that lived in Belleville. He was 40 years old, lived in Belleville for many years and left six children, all but two of whom are married.

UNDER GRANDJURY PROBE.

Two Bankers From Town, Where Senator Farris Lives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Members of the last legislature continue to frequent the grand jury room to answer questions from that body as to what they know of legislative proceedings. More than a half dozen representatives are here this morning, among them being Isaac M. Galt, of Cedar County, J. W. Coy of Polk County, R. W. Rubottom of Carter County, Henry L. Winkler of Morgan County, E. M. Kirkum of Camden County and Henry Voshell of Warren County.

The most important witnesses before the grand jury this morning, it is believed, were W. Underwood, cashier of the Bank at Steelville, the home of Senator Farris, and Thomas R. Gibson of Springfield, who presided in the session of the legislature. Gibson was before the jury Wednesday and was not excused from further attendance, but directed to remain here in readiness to be called again. His presence before the jury, it is claimed, was to give information concerning Senator Farris' bank account during the 1931 session, and the theory is that the jury had him to remain here until it could secure the presence of Underwood, the present cashier of the bank, with the desired books and papers of that institution, that Gibson might identify them.

Gibson and Underwood were both before the jury this morning. The other witnesses before the jury this morning were Representative Henry Voshell of Warren County, Isaac M. Galt of Cedar County, J. W. Coy of Polk and R. W. Rubottom of Carter County.

TO HELP THE NEGRO.

Methodist Missionary Committee Takes Up Question at Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 12.—Interest at the morning session of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church centered in the discussion of the present conditions of the colored people, especially in the South. Two members of the general missionary committee, who are themselves colored men, Rev. Dr. Walter H. Nelson of Huntsville, Ala., and Rev. Dr. Henry A. Monroe of Philadelphia, Pa., made eloquent appeals for the support of the work among their people. No suggestions were made by committee members looking toward the removal of support where this was evidently needed, and in a number of cases additional grants were made above those of last year.

The general conference district represented by Rev. Henry J. Coker of Emporia, Kan., which had been passed because of the latter's extended absence, was taken up this morning. Dr. Coker having arrived, special attention was called to the rapid influx in Oklahoma and an appropriation of $12,500 was made for the work in that territory.

Other appropriations to conferences in Dr. Coker's district were made as follows: Erie, Kan., $500; East Kansas, $1800; South Kansas, $700; Southwest Kansas, $6000; Missouri, $2500; St. Louis, $4200.

Appropriations to colored work, mostly in the South, were made as follows: Atlanta conference, $1100; Central Alabama, $1500; Missouri, $3000.

Andrew H. Green Shot Several Times by a Negro.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Andrew H. Green, the "father of Greater New York," was shot several times this afternoon on the ninth street and Park avenue by Cornelius M. Williams (colored), who has been arrested. Five shots were fired at Mr. Green, four of which took effect. Williams was taken to a station house, where he said he had shot Mr. Green because Mr. Green kept in his employ a negro girl to whom Williams had been paying attention. Williams said he wanted Green to send the girl away.

According to the police, the negro said: "I went there to get him and I got him." The shooting occurred at Mr. Green's home. Mr. Green, who was 83 years old, was the originator of the plan for the consolidation of the several boroughs comprising the city of Greater New York, for which he labored many years. He was born and educated in Massachusetts, but had lived in New York since his admission to the bar. ## TWICE OVER SEAS, HER MISSION FAILS

"More She Does, the Less She Will Get," Says Husband of Deceased Woman.

William Hellmann admits the allegation contained in his wife's suit for support that she has, in the past eight years, followed him from Chicago, where they were married during the Columbian Exposition, to Germany, and thence back to St. Louis, where he is engaged on World's Fair architectural work.

Her other allegations he denies, except their separation. He says the principal reason for the separation was his unwillingness to support her parents. He says he offered his wife $4000 as a compromise, but that she refused it, and now "the more she does, the less she will get."

GRANT'S GRANDSON ST. LOUIS' GUEST

Capt. Algernon Sartoris Arrives to Spend Winter With Mother and Sister.

TALKS OF CANADIAN QUESTION

Did Not Advise Seizure by Force, but He Thinks Canada and United States Will Unite.

Capt. Algernon Sartoris, grandson of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, Friday morning joined his mother, Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, and his sister, Miss Rosemary Sartoris, at the Grand Avenue Hotel.

He expects to remain in St. Louis with them throughout the winter. The captain's present visit is the first he ever made to St. Louis.

Capt. Sartoris was told soon after his arrival at the hotel that his coming to St. Louis had been widely heralded in connection with his letters to Toronto newspapers in regard to the annexing of Canada to the United States.

"I did write the letters to the Toronto newspaper, as has been published," the captain said to the Post-Dispatch, "but I did not advocate the forcible seizure of Canada as I have been quoted as saying. It is my idea that it would be more natural for two people speaking the same language and living on the same continent to be under the same government."

"I think it may come to that some time, but not by force. I believe the people of Canada may be willing to be amalgamated with the United States some day and, if they are, the amalgamation may be made without force."

"It is natural for a country like the United States to expand and if we must expand, it would be much better to expand to the north than to the south. Americans find countries like Mexico too hot to show to their best advantage there."

Resented Criticism of Secretary Root.

"Probably more attention has been given to my letters to the Toronto newspapers than they deserved. I do not think the Canadian people were so indignant about them, although the Canadian newspapers did not appear to approve of them. What I did say was because of the way the Canadians attacked Secretary Root. The Canadians called him a 'jingo' on account of the decision favorable to the United States in the boundary dispute. I didn't like that kind of talk and wrote a letter showing how I felt."

"It's all over now and I trust as little more will be said about it as possible. Capt. Sartoris said he is particularly interested in St. Louis because of the fact that Gen. Grant formerly lived here. He said his mother and sister enjoyed their stay in St. Louis and that he hoped to have a pleasant time here during the winter."

The captain is 26 years old. He is about 5 feet 10 inches tall, broad-shouldered and of heavy build. He no longer has the blonde mustache he formerly wore. Capt. Sartoris acquired his title during the Spanish war when he was a captain of volunteers on the staff of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee in Cuba. After the war he was appointed a second lieutenant in the Tenth Infantry, but resigned his commission about a year ago while on duty in the Philippines. Since returning to the United States he spent the summer with his mother and sister at their home in Cobourg, Canada. It was there last month that he wrote the letters that have occasioned international comment.

HAD CHILLS; STOLE BLANKETS

Dispensary Physicians Offended That Patient Did Not Rely on Medicine.

City Dispensary physicians feel offended that a woman who called there for treatment should consider horse blankets and feather pillows necessary adjuncts to dispensary medicines for the cure of chills and fever.

The woman was thinly clad and shivering when she applied to the dispensary for "something to cure the ague." She was given some medicine and left. Afterwards, when one of the drivers ran to take an ambulance out on a hurry call, he found that the blankets with which the ambulance horses are covered were missing, and that feather pillows used for the comfort of patients were also gone.

Detective work revealed that a woman answering the description of the chills and fever patient had sold two of the blankets to a saloon porter, and had also tried to sell him the remaining blankets and the feather pillows.

GYPSY PRINCESS IS DYING

St. Louis Police Receive Strange Telegram, but Cannot Find Person to Receive It.

The Gypsy Telegram. SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 13. M. Wharton, or any other gypsy: Asia very low. Don't think she can pull through. GEORGE SPARROW.

Far out in the land of Walt Whitman, where Mount Tacoma rears its hoary head far into the heavens and the rushing waters race through the foothills to the accompaniment of the sweet music which they make, a Gypsy princess is dying.

The St. Louis police Friday received a telegram to be delivered to M. Wharton, "or any other Gypsy." M. Wharton is evidently thought to be in St. Louis but the authorities are unable to find trace of him.

MURDERER ELUDES POLICE.

Reese of Breese, Who Killed Frank Feeley, Is Still at Large.

No trace had been found Friday morning of the man who killed Frank Feeley and shot Albert Wagner, proprietor and bartender, respectively, in a saloon at Sixth and Elm streets, Wednesday night.

A letter found by the police leads them to think the man's real name is Roy Reese instead of Roy Breese or Callahan. The coroner's jury returned a verdict charging Reese, alias Breese, alias Callahan, with the murder.

Wagner lies unconscious at the City Hospital and there is little hope for his recovery. He has been unable to make a statement of the affair. These in the saloon at the time of the shooting were arrested as witnesses have been released.

Is the largest office in the gift of the people of the United States really chasing Uncle Mark Hanna?

Mr. Wainwright may be in Swat before all the arrangements for his transfer to Missouri are complete.

In the elegant language of the up-to-date financial world, the Panama government is now a going concern.

Testifying to wrongdoing by superiors is a crime on the part of employees of the postoffice to be punished by summary dismissal. That is the rule under the Payne regime.

THE PANAMA CASE.

The orders issued by the navy department to prevent Colombian troops from embarking for the Isthmus of Panama have been modified to an order to prevent them from landing. While technically this is a modification, practically the modified order is as effective to prevent Colombia from putting down the revolt in Panama as the original order. It is equivalent to saying to Colombia: "You may send troops from your ports to Panama, but you can't land them."

This order is one of the series of remarkable steps taken by the United States with regard to the Panama revolution, which makes it the most extraordinary case in the history of American diplomacy.

The first order sent out by the government to the naval representatives was to prevent bloodshed, which was equivalent to saying to Colombia that the United States would not permit her to put down the Panama insurrection by force. Naturally this made it impossible for the Colombian government to put down the insurrection without clashing with the United States government.

The United States government, in short, stood between the Panama seceders and the Colombian government as an effective bar to any effort on the part of the Colombian government to prevent the Panama secession. A member of the administration is quoted as saying, "We intend to have peace if we have to fight for it."

But the action of the United States in favor of Panama's secession did not stop with the prevention of any interference on the part of the Colombian government. Immediately following the proclamation of independence, the United States recognized the secession government as the de facto government. This action has been followed by a practical protectorate, thus assuring the success of the movement for independence.

Information is leaking out to the effect that the Washington administration was cognizant of the intention of the secession leaders in Panama to declare independence of Colombia previous to the revolution and that steps were taken to insure its success. In fact, the plans of the revolution were known in Washington before they were known in Colombia and steps had been taken in support of the revolution before Colombia had any knowledge of it.

How far the United States government was informed as to the conspiracy and whether any understanding existed between the revolutionists and the United States officials can only be determined by complete information. The history of the entire transaction will make extremely interesting reading, but in the light of the facts actually known the case is a remarkable page of American history. It cannot fail to give ground for the suspicion that the United States, in order to clear the way for the building and complete control of the Panama canal, aided and abetted the secession of a state from a friendly nation.

The question naturally arises as to the propriety of the conduct of the administration, as to its consistency with the principles and traditions of the United States government. That Europe acquiesces in everything we have done on the Isthmus of Panama has nothing to do with the question, viewed from an American standpoint. Europe would acquiesce, probably, in any interference of the United States with South American republics, and would perhaps welcome the use of the mailed hand by the United States in Central and South America as an American justification of European policy, and as a promise of an effective means of keeping order in Central and South America.

Undoubtedly the Panama revolution has accomplished for us an easy solution of the canal problem. It is a decided gain to the certainty of the building of the canal under conditions which assure the supremacy of the United States.

But the real question for Americans is this: Can we afford to gain these ends by departing from American principles and traditions? Is it wise for us to have secret understandings and entangling alliances with our sister republics? Is it wise to start the precedent of interfering with their national affairs, to begin putting up and pulling down governments, to begin acting as the practical master of all America, regardless of right or wrong? Is it necessary for us to gain our ends by such means?

The course of the United States towards Colombia is directly contrary to the course which the United States insisted that European nations should follow with regard to the Confederacy during the civil war. Minister Adams, under the instructions of Mr. Seward, Secretary of State, protested vigorously against a recognition of the Confederacy as an independent government on the part of England. Mr. Seward made it clear to the European nations that the United States would regard any recognition of the Confederate states until they demonstrated their power to maintain independence, an act of hostility, and that attitude was rigorously maintained throughout the war. Can anyone doubt that an attempt on the part of a European nation to interfere with our effort to put down the Confederacy would have resulted in war with the United States? Let us suppose that France or Germany had stepped in and endeavored to sustain and protect the Confederate States—what would have been the result?

Yet the Confederate States were in a far better position to ask recognition, having an army and navy and complete control of the territory of the seceded states and being almost on an equality with the North, than Panama was at the time the United States recognized its independence. Panama having no army, no navy, and having not even ascertained the will of the people with regard to the movement for independence.

Would we attempt what we have done in Panama against a government able to resist it?

This is the real test of the propriety of our attitude towards Colombia.

We must face the charge that we have completely reversed our views of the policy to be pursued towards a seceding state when our own interests would make unfairness profitable. Do we not get the Panama canal at a tremendous cost when the means adopted to that end signify a departure from our American ideals, our previous standard of conduct, our principles and involve us in a new and dangerous phase of imperialism?

By their treatment of Senator Kratz the Mexicans show that they do not appreciate eminent citizens who have been guilty of conventional crimes (which are very minor offenses). Kratz was trying to introduce up-to-date finance into the country, but his arrest arrests the development of franchise grabbing, an industry which has made many millionaires in the United States and plunged several municipalities into the depths of poverty. No, the Mexicans don't appreciate enterprise and public spirit.

IS IT ANOTHER DREYFUS CASE?

Postmaster-General Payne dismissed Anna Dreyer, Samuel Kober, Joseph Dreyer and Birdie Knott, clerks in the St. Louis postoffice, on a charge of "conspiracy" to secure the removal of Postmaster Baumhoff.

The report upon which this action of the postmaster-general was taken was made by Civil Service Commissioner Foulke. None of the dismissed clerks have been permitted to know the details of the charge or the evidence of the "conspiracy," nor have they been given an opportunity to reply.

Civil Service Commissioner Cooley says that he has seen the report and knows that this "conspiracy" is the basis of the dismissal, but he knows nothing of the facts and cannot tell upon what evidence the charge rests, because the report is confidential and is in the hands of the President.

Has the postoffice department adopted the methods used in the Dreyfus case by the bureaucrats of the French army? Can public employees be "broken" on secret reports containing charges and testimony which they are not permitted to examine or to answer?

In a case of this kind is not the salient point the truth of the testimony submitted by these dismissed clerks, and not the fact that they testified to wrongdoing? Is it true?

Why should the facts be suppressed? What is the pull that obtains the dismissal of clerks who have made complaint concerning their superiors without opportunity to become informed of the charges against them or to answer those charges?

What does President Roosevelt think of such arbitrary and unjust action?

The Paris Figaro accounts for the desire of the United States government to compel the return of Mr. Wainwright by the statement that he is wanted to help make the great World's Fair in St. Louis. Mr. Wainwright would like to return and become a World's Fair director, but the climate of Paris is so ravishing and the society there so charming that he simply cannot tear himself away. This is delicious.

TWO WAYS OF RELIEVING THE DESTITUTE.

It is believed that there will be an unusual number of beggars in St. Louis this winter. The problem how to deal with them must be solved. Chief of Police Kiely suggests an ordinance condemning all persons convicted of begging "to work with a ball and chain on their ankles repairing streets."

Speaking of the relief of the destitute by the Provident Association, President Scruggs says: "The circumstance of each individual must be considered. They must be regarded, not as recipients of gifts, but as men and women whose standard of living is to be raised."

Here are two diametrically opposed plans for relieving the destitute. Chief Kiely's plan ignores "the circumstance of each individual." It proposes to condemn him simply because he is begging in the streets. But if he can make his needs known in some other way he may escape the chain gang. President Scruggs' idea is that he be treated as a man "whose standard of living is to be raised." How is his standard of living to be raised by treating him as a criminal?

While it is quite true that a number of impostors will try to impose on the kindness of citizens, because of World's Fair conditions, it would hardly be in keeping with the spirit of civilization to make a clean sweep of the innocent along with the fraudulent beggar, condemning each and all to further degradation. St. Louis can hardly afford to create the chain-gang system at this time. It would be better for the city to act in the spirit of President Scruggs' suggestion, rather than follow the harsh plan of Chief Kiely.

The high steps of many of the street cars should be done away with before the arrival of our World's Fair visitors. There will be cripples, short people and old people among them, just as there are among the 650,000 people of St. Louis.

The consumer should pay a fair price for milk and should have a pure article. If he gets real milk he can thin it himself and if he wants skim milk he can skim it himself.

In the wild West a man may be killed for refusing to drink. In St. Louis he may be killed for refusing to sell a drink.

The cartoonists have depended much upon the President's spectacles; they now begin to get encouragement from his rotundity.

Dresser's partner is said to have held bonds he never saw. But perhaps that was better than if he had seen bonds he never held.

The establishment of baby annexes to churches recalls Zangwill's definition: "A baby is a joy to its mother, an heir to its father, a charge to its nurse, a soul to the clergyman who baptizes, a new biological specimen to the physician and a nuisance to the neighbors." It is a little remarkable that in his definition Zangwill did not bring in the landlord somewhere.

Cook as a Lobbyist.

From the Potomac, Mo., Journal.
 The effort to make it appear that Cook's only offense consisted in failing to equal on a friend is not truthful. He was a voluntary witness to bribery, according to his own statement. That transaction, if he knew of no other, gave him an insight into the corrupt practices that were going on. He knew of the corruption, and as the chairman of the party he ought to have steered it the other way. But no, he let everything drift on in the corrupt way and declared all was well. The testimony in the Cook case was anything but creditable to him. It showed him as a lobbyist caring more for the fees as a lobbyist than for the party.

ON TIME.

The great Exposition
 is nearing completion:
 Its present condition,
 Behold, is sublime.
 Of wonders alluring
 Each day shows accretion,
 The world reawakening
 'Twill be finished on time.

The thousands who view it
 Are instantly captured,
 The beauty all through it
 Is so truly sublime.
 In amazement they ramble,
 Or marvel, enraptured,
 And they're willing to gamble
 'Twill open on time.

In its praise they are dutiful,
 Constant and steady,
 (Not on to the beautiful
 Twist of my rhyme)
 For, having once been there,
 They know 'twill be ready,
 And the world will get in there
 Exactly on time.

Just gaze on these palaces
 Out on the site there,
 Then fill up your glasses,
 Toast us in rhyme!
 Here's to brioche and ambition!
 The world is all bright there,
 And the great Exposition
 Will be open on time!

Keeping Late Hours.

From time immemorial it has been the complaint of wives that husbands remain away from home until "all hours," returning sometimes in an owl ear and sometimes in a low-necked hack, much to the scandalization of the neighborhood, and many a bitter complaint has been filed in private (that is to say, many a curtain lecture has been delivered) concerning this course of conduct. Yet little good has this done for men are perverse creatures and their hearts are froward. Ever since Noah introduced the practice of wine-bibbing there has been trouble in the world on account of late hours, and the probabilities are that there will continue to be trouble until the curtain shall descend upon Scare Three, Act Five, of the great drama of creation.

Men have sought by every means within the range of fact and fiction to justify their conduct in remaining away from home two-thirds of the night, but very few of these excuses have made any impression upon the feminine mind—or, rather, upon the feminine entity as a whole, for woman is guided by intuition, rather than by logic—and few men have ever been able to prove to their exacting spouses that any practical benefit was to be derived from working all day and then sitting up until daylight the next morning. Sometimes the results of a lucky guess at poor, if properly invested in feminine headgear, will go far to prove that late hours are not an unmitigated evil, but as a general proposition there is no excuse wide enough, deep enough and profound enough to explain a husband's absence from his own fireside after 10 o'clock p. m.

Most men love their homes, but few of them love home well enough to cleave to it continually and eternally and never once stick their noses into the outside world after nightfall. Many of them, if asked why they roam around at night, would probably tell you that it was because staying at home is too much of a good thing. As Shelley said:

When I was young I fed on honey-sweets * * *
 Men, by St. Thomas' cannot live like bees,
 And I grew tired.

That is exactly the size of it. Husbands require light and freedom in order to flourish properly, but some wives will never be able to understand why.

A Rare Case.

An Indiana citizen,
 For years who had to grovel,
 Who never saw a printing press,
 Died in his lonely hovel.
 They carved this line above his grave:
 "He never wrote a novel."

A Denver paper lugubriously inquires if there are no more great men. Modesty prevents an immediate reply to this question, but our office hours may be ascertained by applying at the counting room.

POST-DISPATCH FASHIONS. AUTUMN AND WINTER GOWNS

The first gown is of red cloth. The skirt is made with box plaits in the middle of the front and back; the sides are furnished with a flounce, headed by black braid arranged in vandyke points. The blouse, with high collar, is trimmed with the braid and ornamented with buttons. Folds of the cloth simulating box plaits form bretelles. The fronts are lined with black velvet, and can be turned back to form revers. The collar and girdle are also of black velvet. The chemise, with standing collar, is of white lace, frills of which, with a braid trimmed ruffe of the cloth, finish the sleeve. The other gown is of green cloth. The skirt is plaited over the hips and finished at the bottom with a deep flounce made with groups of plaits and cut in blocks at the top. The full blouse is gathered to an odd yoke, covered with a fine black silk braiding. The revers and girdle are of green velvet, the former ornamented with gold buttons. The sleeves are plaited in at the bottom to form cuffs, which are finished at the wrists with the velvet.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS.

MORE THAN SPOT COULD STAND.

Spot would not pull the wagon for the two little girls.
 "Never mind," said Ethel. "I know how we can make him go. Let's tie a tin can to his tail. Brother Tom makes dogs just run by tying tin cans on their tails."
 A tin can was found and tied on. Both little girls got in the wagon, and by pulling at the lines finally got old Spot to his feet. The dog heard a strange rattling behind him. He turned to one side to see what it was, and the can slammed against the wagon on the other side. He turned to the other side, and the can went bang!

Then Spot began to run. The faster he ran the louder the tin can rattled. The little girls screamed and pulled on the lines, but there was no stopping Spot.

At last a gentleman coming up the street, "Oh, papa!" Daisy cried. "Stop him—stop Spot! We'll be killed. He's running away!"

Daisy's papa stopped the runaway. Then he asked: "Why, little daughter, what's this you've tied on Spot's tail?"

Both little girls were crying. "It was just a tin can we tied to his tail 'cause he wouldn't go, and Ethel said a tin can would make him go," Daisy explained.

"Well, it did make him go," Daisy's papa said, laughing. "But I don't believe you ever want to try it again, do you?" Both little girls said no. Then Daisy's papa put them in the wagon and led old Spot home, a sadder and a wiser dog.

MISFIT MAXIM.

"The child is father to the man," remarked the proverb dispenser.
 "Don't you believe it," replied the observer of human nature. "The child howls when it is empty, and the man howls when he is full."

CHANCE TO CONJECTURE.

"Those spots on the sun," said the great observer, "indicate that a disturbance is going on."

"You don't say," spoke up the Chicago citizen. "I wonder if it's a football game, auto race, election day or is some solar mayor looking for grafters?"

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

An Old Maid's Advice.

To "Brown Eyes," who is now deeply in love and asking advice from an old maid, would like to say I am an old maid and know how to sympathize with her, having lost my first sweetheart in a similar way. I would advise her to be kind to him and let him know she is fond of him, and if he is inclined to be "spoony," spoon with him, even if it is under the banyan tree. It was through not letting my sweetheart be a little spoony with me that I lost him. It was on one dark and dismal night; he brought me home from a play and at the gate he wanted to squeeze me and I refused and stood and watched him go down the walk for the last time. Now I am an old maid, 61 years old. Don't give him up until he is yours anyway, for I might beat your time yet, myself.

EAST SIDE READER.
 East St. Louis, Ill.

Good Board, but Few Boarders.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Would like to ask "Boarder," what part of town his boarding place is situated. I keep boarders and take as much interest in them as I would in my own family. We do our own cooking, have all kinds of meat, vegetables, fruit and what boarders I have are satisfied, but can't get my house filled. If "Boarder" will tell me how people who don't feed their boarders keep them and those that feed them can't get them, I would be very much obliged.
 St. Louis. A READER.

An Authority on Love.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 If any one wants to know what love is let him read an "English Woman's Love Letters." They will serve as a definition for all time, and dispel all doubts when they arise.
 St. Louis. DANE.

His Own Press Agent.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 In your "Man in the Street" column Tuesday was the following:
 "Judge Beach of East St. Louis has come to the front again by trying a case over the telephone. By the way, who is Judge Beach's press agent?"

In reply, would say that my press agent is these correspondents of the Post-Dispatch. East St. Louis newspapers who are in daily attendance in my court, who know a good item when they see it, are not afraid to write it and who have a fair sense of humor.

I am a self-appointed press agent for all the boys, so far, that I never want to see one of them scooped on any item of East St. Louis and vicinity and for that reason I am not playing favorites.

All newspaper men are welcome in my court at any time and I will gladly furnish them with any tip that I may have. My press agency will be kept open at night at my residence, 1407 Missouri avenue, with the assistance of Bell phone, East IIIA, until the St. Louis papers go to press. Feeling satisfied that I could answer your question better than any other, I willingly furnish you the information that I know you desire. Thanking the Post-Dispatch for the many favors that it has shown me in the past and trusting that it may still continue to have the same friendly feeling for the newspaper fraternity, I shall act as press agent for you as I do for the other members of the fraternity, unless you file your objections with me in open court.
 East St. Louis, Ill. J. M. BEACH, J. P.

Those Inspectors' Uniforms.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 The rulings of Street Commissioner Varrelmann I think is an imposition. It is a consolation to think that the other commissioners are Democrats and have confidence in their subordinates enough to know that any work they are sent out to look after they have got both the experience and push in them to see it done correctly without putting them on a flunky band.
 St. Louis. OLD RELIABLE.

Definition of Love.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 The following is an old definition of love, which is considered fairly accurate: Love is the torment of one, the felicity of two, the strife and the enmity of three.
 It is a charm which draws the beings together, unless they be delicious sympathies, making it happiness to be with each other but misery to be apart.
 St. Louis. R. D. W.

A Song.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I think I have the song "Reader" want. The exact title is: "Till Awaits My Love," by Howard.
 Has he or she tried the publishers? The copy I have is a little passé.
 St. Louis. C. AUGUSTINE.

Single Tax vs. Union Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Inasmuch as the labor unions are sincere in their desire to remedy the want, the despair of the masses, they deserve our respect and sympathy; as educators they should be encouraged, for they are near by the problem they wish to solve; their theory of organization for obtaining better wages will not, however, bear the probe of rational inquiry. This I propose to show by illustration.
 My grandfather rented from old man Astor, his right of exclusive possession to an acre of valuable land. He paid Astor $60 a year for the lot at a time when land was cheap, laborers few and capital scarce; there were then neither strikes or trusts. The same lot now rents for $1000 a year. "Because" laborers are plentiful, capital abundant and churches and workhouses in the wake of high rent. Labor organizers demand of the capitalist working this privilege, higher wages, which he receives; he demands again and again, until he reaches the limit at which he must stop. As all wealth comes from labor applied to land the increase of the share of labor must come either from the interest going to capital, or from the rent going to land, when this is exhausted production must cease, for the capitalist must not pay his laborers.

One single tax is the only automatic regulator of differences between labor and capital. By appropriating for communal expense the unearned increment of site value, it gives more in exchange to labor, by abolishing all taxes on industry and trade. Labor unions and socialists have a tendency to restrict production with their wage capitation, their friend. Let them destroy monopoly through taxation. The power, in fact, accrues to the laborer, as shown in Justice Marshall's case.
 St. Louis. MILLMAN.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF STOCKS IN MARKET AND FINANCIAL WORLD

THE SHORT COVERING MADE STRONG CLOSE

BROKE THE RECORD HIGH FOR THIS MORNING

WHEAT, CORN AND OATS

The Same Interests Which Hammered Pennsylvania, Were Active in St. Paul Today.

The opening showed a fairly active market, with prices not much changed, but with a disposition on the part of the professional traders to attack St. Paul. The same bears who were after Pennsylvania early in the week were prominent in the St. Paul selling and the price declined. Pennsylvania showed good strength, and on short covering made good advances from the low point.

The prospects for the bank statement are somewhat conflicting, a loss in cash being possible, offset by a decrease in the loan account.

Today's steamer from the other side brings nearly a million in gold. The market seems to be heavily overvalued and the strength in the most active issues is attributed to short covering.

Commission buying is not prominent. The close showed about the opening and at a good gain for the day.

Special is the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The market opened with fairly good volume and business this morning was active, but little changed from yesterday's close. London was firmer and had a few buying orders here.

The announcement that the gold engagements will aggregate $5,750,000, of which $500,000 has arrived, has a good effect on the market, though the bank statement is not expected to be more than negatively favorable. The cash has not yet begun to return here to any appreciable extent and it can hardly be expected that it will do so for some time yet.

The market is apparently still in an overvalued condition and the demands for stocks, the demand for bonds and for gold. This overvalued market seems to be the main reason why prices are maintained as well as in the case of generally adverse conditions.

The currency market is in a state of general activity. The currency is in the latest, be announced. The railroads are said to be holding off for a cut in rates before they place their orders for the next year.

The report that the Northern Securities Co. has been sold to J. P. Morgan & Co. is strong and has been a factor in the prospects of the expected Cuban legislation being decided favorable to the company.

This market has been active in volume and during the first half hour there were but few changes of importance. Steel preferred was in good demand and sold readily up to 52, with only a slight decline at the close of the first hour.

The opening prices and changes were as follows: Copper 34 1/2 unchanged; Steel, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Erie, 34 1/2, unchanged; Metropolitan, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Brooklyn, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Mississippi Pacific, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; New York Central, 34 1/2, decline 1/2; Pennsylvania, 34 1/2, decline 1/2; Rock Island, 34 1/2, unchanged; Reading, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; St. Paul, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Sugar, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Union Pacific, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Steel, common, 34 1/2, advance 1/2; Steel, preferred, 34 1/2, advance 1/2.

Nearly a million in gold was on the market, which arrived this morning. This will not show on the statement tomorrow, but the averages are said to be some better than was earlier figured. While deposits will probably decrease, the item, it is said, will again show a good decrease.

Metropolitan continued strong, as did the other local fractions. It was reported around the market that Pennsylvania had good authority, that the Pennsylvania had ordered a resumption of its new construction work, which was recently suspended. Steel common was not active and was little changed. The preferred was lively and was liberally dealt in around 52.

The sales to open were $3,500,000 shares, with money at 4 1/2 per cent.

The overnight condition of the market asserted itself well in the last hour of the day. There was some good short covering by those who were worried about being able to cover at a profit.

The losses in St. Paul and Pennsylvania were wiped out and gains were made in these stocks, which were about the most active of the day, other issues naturally following.

Trading was a trifle ragged for a time, but in the last 15 minutes there was a burst of life, which made the close a good one and at prices showing a substantial advance over the opening.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Prices in the stock market today opened higher all around, on a firm demand. The heavy advance of Pennsylvania carried it up 1/2. Union Pacific gained 1/2. Steel common was hardened.

A small fraction of the market was active. Active selling was renewed in all quarters, Pennsylvania falling below yesterday's closing, and a sharp reaction in the steel market. Steel common was sold at 34 1/2, but the selling was not effective at the low level and prices recovered. Steel preferred was sold at 52 1/2, but the selling was not effective at the low level and prices recovered.

Miss Rose Peterson, Secretary Parkdale Tennis Club, Chicago, from experience advises all young girls who have pains and sickness peculiar to their sex, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many beautiful young girls develop into worn, listless and hopeless women, simply because sufficient attention has not been paid to their physical development. No woman is exempt from physical weakness and periodic pain, and young girls just budding into womanhood should be carefully guided physically as well as morally.

If you know of any young lady who is sick, and needs motherly advice, ask her to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., who will give her advice free, from a source of knowledge which is unequalled in the country. Do not hesitate about stating details which one may not like to talk about, and which are essential for a full understanding of the case.

Miss Hannah E. Mershon, Collingswood, N. J., says:

"I thought I would write and tell you that, by following your kind advice, I feel like a new person. I was always thin and delicate, and so weak that I could hardly do anything. Menstruation was irregular. I tried a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and began to feel better right away. I continued its use, and am now well and strong, and menstruate regularly. I cannot say enough for what your medicine did for me."

How Mrs. Pinkham Helped Fannie Kumpfe.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it is my duty to write and tell you of the benefit I have derived from your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The pains in my back and womb have all left me, and my menstrual trouble is corrected. I am very thankful for the good advice you gave me, and I shall recommend your medicine to all who suffer from female weakness."—Miss FANNIE KUMPF, 1923 Chester St., Little Rock, Ark. (Dec. 16, 1900.)

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure any woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, nervous prostration, and all forms of woman's special ills.

TROUBLES OF STAGE MADE REAL TO HER

Inez Barrett, St. Louis Actress, Charges Husband, Company Manager, With Abandonment.

SHE BLAMES A SOUBRETTE

Citizens of O'Fallon, Where Troupe Disbanded, Gave Her Generous Sum by Benefit.

Inez Barrett, a beautiful young St. Louis woman, who has been leading lady of the Virginia Girl company this year and is the wife of James Lockwood, manager of the company, in on the trail of her husband and a pretty little soubrette who joined the company recently.

Mrs. Lockwood applied for a warrant in Belleville Friday morning, charging wife and child abandonment. She was advised to find Lockwood before securing the warrant. In company with a lawyer she set out at once for Mulberry Grove, Ill., which she believes Lockwood and the soubrette have gone to organize another troupe.

Mrs. Lockwood takes the title role in "La Belle Marie," a stirring drama of love and crime. This week she has experienced in real life the first portion of the story of Jean Ingelow, which she has enacted on the stage so many times, little dreaming that such sorrow was to come to her.

Jean Ingelow, a beautiful young girl, meets and learns to love a handsome man. They are married. A child comes to them. The man desires her and leaves her alone in the world. Not surrendering her hope of revenge, she follows him many years, disguised as a poor woman, and gives evidence of possessing wealth. As "La Belle Marie" she wins his admiration and love. Then when he urges marriage, she spurns his pleadings and tears off her disguise. The villain kills himself.

The Virginia Girl Co., after several weeks of unprofitable business, struck O'Fallon Monday morning, where they were so disappointed financially that no advance advertising had been done. Lockwood and his leading man and the leader of the "orchestra"—he being the piano player, which same constituted the band—hunted around the town and stuck up some posters.

Benefit for Deserted Wife.

A part of O'Fallon went through the doors of the opera house Monday night, and more went Tuesday night. Nobody went Wednesday night.

Mrs. Lockwood had been suspicious of her husband almost from the day the new soubrette joined the company. Tuesday, she says, she found her husband and the soubrette "trunking love." She threw a china cup at her husband.

According to Mrs. Lockwood, her husband declared that the game was up and that he was going away, whereupon the soubrette asked what was to become of her and was assured by Lockwood that she "could come along, too."

"When I asked him what was to become of me and the baby," said Mrs. Lockwood Friday, "he answered that he was with me and that I could look out for myself."

Lockwood and six other members of the company left O'Fallon Wednesday, the soubrette among the number. Mrs. Lockwood, two sisters, a dancing team, and the juvenile man remained in O'Fallon. They had no money. Citizens of the town, who sympathized with the young wife, and immediately prepared a benefit for the four stranded ones. The benefit was given Thursday night to a packed house. Mrs. Lockwood and the others giving a clever entertainment.

The baggage and scenery of the Virginia Girl company is held by Landlord Sperry. Mrs. Lockwood visited her parents in St. Louis Thursday. She was married to Lockwood at Christ Church, Cathedral City, St. Louis, two years ago, when only 19 years old.

WOMAN PAYS FINE IN SCORN

Mamie White Selects $10 Bill From Big Roll and Throws It on Clerk's Desk.

Mamie White was fined $10 and costs Friday morning by Judge Tracy in the City Hall Police Court on a charge which grew out of her alleged robbery of J. Weller Reed, defaulting secretary of the California Fruit Canning Association, six weeks ago.

What became of the remainder of the $2000 which it is alleged she and a confederate secured from Reed's clothing some six weeks ago has not been made plain. She had an immense roll of bills in her possession, but no question as to which she selected the amount of the fine from the inside of the roll. She scornfully upon the clerk's desk and left the court room.

Reed, who was fleeing from California with $2000 of his employer's money, succumbed to the woman's wink when she passed him from a doorway. He reported his loss to the police, and while he and Sergt. Glynn were searching for the woman, Glynn recognized Reed as a man whom Los Angeles officers wanted, and for whom a $500 reward was offered. Glynn took him to the Four Courts, where the remainder of the remaining $2000 was found in his possession. This money was confiscated by the Los Angeles officers who came after him, and after Glynn's reward was paid out of it, taken back to California.

When Mamie White was brought before Reed he identified her; but the Los Angeles authorities would not permit him to remain to prosecute. So a charge of violating city ordinances was made against the woman, and after various continuances she was found guilty and fined.

WRESTLER HURLED 15 FEET.

Amateur Athlete Aspires to Professional Honors After Latest Feat.

John Middlecoff, an amateur wrestler of Belleville, is an aspirant for professional honors since exhibiting a prodigious display of strength in a bout at the Pastime Athletic Club.

Middlecoff and Nick Eichelmann were the contestants. Honors were even until Middlecoff secured a firm body-hold on head for a fall.

Eichelmann drew 15 feet, feet first, through a window. The crowd prevented his whole body from passing through. When he was extricated it was found that his left leg was so severely lacerated that he was compelled to seek a physician.

Middlecoff won the decision.

Mr. Goodman King, president of the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Co., leaves tomorrow for New York to secure the very latest productions of foreign and domestic manufacturers of holiday novelties which addition to the recent large and direct importations by the company will form the most complete collection of beautiful holiday offerings ever exhibited in St. Louis or elsewhere. Mr. King will be pleased to execute any special commissions that may be entrusted to him.

CHILD DIES FROM SCALDING.

Kettle Is Overturned on Boy, Causing His Death.

Eddie, the 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eckel, was fatally scalded Thursday afternoon.

A kettle of boiling water stood on the stove. While the mother was in another room, the child clambered on a chair next to the stove and upset the kettle, spilling the contents over himself. He died four hours later.

ROLLING PIN IN HER ARSENAL.

Husband Says Butcherknife First Seized in Domestic Dispute.

A club, rolling pin and butcher knife, wielded in domestic disputes by a wife of uncontrollable temper, are the causes related for divorce in the petition of Charles Devos of East St. Louis against Marie Lape Devos, filed in the circuit court at Belleville.

They were married Jan. 7, 1900, in East St. Louis, he alleges, and got along harmoniously until May 22, 1903, when Mrs. Devos emphasized her side of an argument with a bill of wood. The victory so elated her, he declares, that two days later she beat him with a rolling pin. Soon after the butler knife episode occurred. The climax came when she deserted him July 22, last.
